Camping Use Fees Supended In Interior Depart. Areas

Secretary of Interior Rogers C. B. Morton today announced that the Department Land Management Agency will no longer charge use fees for camping at federally operated campgrounds, in compliance with Public Law #93-81 signed by President Nixon on Aug. 1.

The law provides that: "No fee may be charged for access to or use of any campground not having the following - flush rest rooms, showers reasonably available, access and circulatory roads, sanitary disposal stations reasonably available, visitor protection control, designated tent or trailer space, refuse containers and potable water."

All federal land management agencies are affected by the new law. Within the Department of Interior, use fees will no longer be charged for camping in campgrounds operated by the Bureau of Land management, Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife and the National Park Service. Recreation areas at Bureau of Reclamation reservoirs are operated for the most part by cooperating non-federal public agencies.

In conformance with the new legislation, the National Park Service has discontinued collection of use fees for the more than 29,000 campsites maintained in 92 park areas throughout the United States. Some 25,000 campsites are now on a first come-first served basis, with 4,000 campsites in six parks available on a reservation basis through American Express Reservations, Inc., Ramada Inns, and many Hertz Rent-A-Car counters.

American Express offers more than 1,000 campsite reservation outlets in 49 states to reserve camping spaces at Yosemite, Yellowstone, Grand Teton, Grand Canyon, Everglades and Acadia National Parks.

Despite the discontinuance of the camping fee program, American Express will continue to accept campsite reservations at a fee of $150. The National park Service believes this is desirable for those who wish to assure themselves of a campsite. Secretary Morton said that, in addition, only one single visit entrance fee will be charged at designated areas of the National Park System, regardless of the number of days a visitor stays within a given area. On the day the entrance fee is paid, visitors may leave and re-enter the area without payment of an additional fee.

Use of the Golden Eagle and Golden Age Passports is not affected by the new legislation. Neither are fees charged for use of campgrounds by concessioners.

Complete plans of project "Downtown Appomattox" are on display at the Town Office and citizens are urged to stop by and look them over. The amount of interest shown by you, the citizens, will possibly determine if downtown will "come alive" as other historic towns have done or if it will slowly fade away. Your views should be expressed to any member of the town council.

Visitors to Appomattox Court House National Historical Park number 250,000 annually but only stay in our area a few hours. Let's give them a reason to stay for a few days, Appomattox does have a lot to offer the tourist if we choose to make the most of it.
